

The QUEST for a PhD: VICTORY the

Last week in Mwalimu, we published part I of Dr Samuel Luzube's narrative of a long, rough and costly journey to getting his doctorate from the Eastern University in the U.S. With an aim of inspiring you to never give up, this is his second and last part on the narration of his memorable journey.

Luzube (second right) with his classmates before climbing Lake Mountain in 2009

Undergraduate moments

There were unforgettable moments in the three years that such was the case. The first three years of the undergraduate program were so challenging. I recall a particular moment when I was in my second semester. I had just passed my first semester and was excited to go to my second semester. I had just passed my first semester and was excited to go to my second semester. I had just passed my first semester and was excited to go to my second semester.

I remember trying to meet a deadline for a paper one night while in Yemen (Hodida by the Red Sea) when the entire night was filled with the sound of gunshot

The experience in Yemen, Yemen was so challenging. I recall a particular moment when I was in my second semester. I had just passed my first semester and was excited to go to my second semester. I had just passed my first semester and was excited to go to my second semester.

20-35 The names of papers of Luzube's events

20-35 The names of papers of Luzube's events. 20-35 The names of papers of Luzube's events.

30-40am The names of papers of Luzube's events

30-40am The names of papers of Luzube's events. 30-40am The names of papers of Luzube's events.

ultimate REWARD

Luzube (second right) with his classmates before climbing Lake Mountain in 2009

Luzube (second right) with his classmates before climbing Lake Mountain in 2009

More thanks

I am grateful to the National Council and the Eastern University for the opportunity to study in the U.S. I am grateful to the National Council and the Eastern University for the opportunity to study in the U.S.

However life has a way of conspiring against the plans one may have. Every time I sit down to write, there would be a whirl of distractions and disturbances, all beckoning me. So, I decided to find a hiding place

However life has a way of conspiring against the plans one may have. Every time I sit down to write, there would be a whirl of distractions and disturbances, all beckoning me. So, I decided to find a hiding place.

TOP TIP

TOP TIP. I am grateful to the National Council and the Eastern University for the opportunity to study in the U.S.

RISKY AFFAIR

RISKY AFFAIR. I am grateful to the National Council and the Eastern University for the opportunity to study in the U.S.

DATA ANALYSIS

DATA ANALYSIS. I am grateful to the National Council and the Eastern University for the opportunity to study in the U.S.

BEYOND THE BARRIERS

BEYOND THE BARRIERS. I am grateful to the National Council and the Eastern University for the opportunity to study in the U.S.