

ABSTRACT

The study was carried out to determine relationship between financing agriculture sector and Agricultural productivity of NAADS in Kyenjojo District. The objectives to achieve included; determining the respondents profile of Gender, Age Category, level of education, Type of employment and experience on the usefulness of financing agricultural productivity of NAADS in Kyenjojo District. To determine the extent at which agricultural sector of National Agriculture Advisory Services (NAADS) has been financed in Kyenjojo district. To determine the level of agricultural productivity in Kyenjojo district To determine the relationship between Financing agricultural sector of NAADS and Agricultural productivity in Kyenjojo District. The study population were 1000 registered farmers and the sample size selected was 100 respondents using sloven`s formula. The Sample size was obtained using stratified sampling procedure and simple random selection. The study was carried out using descriptive correlation design where by both qualitative and quantitative methods of data collection were used. Information was obtained from primary source using Questionnaires and interviews and secondary sources from the existing records about area of research from universities libraries. Journals and News papers.